Administrator

PREFACE

Hoosiers have traditionally been generous and compassionate to those who are unable to care for themselves through no fault of their own, while, at the same time, rightfully demanding that their dollars are effectively and efficiently used. This is particularly true for the State Department of Public Welfare where its activities and expenditures affect virtually all Indiana citizens. As State Welfare Administrator under Governor Robert Orr, I am pleased to report that the sometimes conflicting goals of compassion and efficiency are being met by the State Department of Public Welfare as can be noted in this edition of our annual report, highlighting our activities and accomplishments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1984.

Our accomplishments could only have been reached through the dedication of a committed staff at the state level and at all 92 county departments of public welfare. It is most important that all of us recognize the efforts and diligence of these public employees.

Hoosier taxpayers can be confident that their tax dollar is being used effectively, humanely, and accurately. Under the leadership of Governor Orr, the state department has been instrumental in helping the aged, blind and disabled through Medicaid, the hungry through the Food Stamp Program, and the single parent family through Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Indiana's nationally recognized Child Support Program. We are increasingly proud of our Child Welfare programs through our emphasis on child abuse and neglect awareness and prevention activities, as well as working toward permanency planning for parentless children.

All these activities and others are outlined in the "Graphic Review of Indiana's Welfare Programs for Fiscal Year ending June 30, 1984". Along with our 92 County Departments of Public Welfare, I invite you to peruse the publication to more fully understand where your tax dollar goes in the delivery of assistance to thousands of needy persons.

Sincerely,

Donald L. Blinzinger
